

Design, to me, is the bridge between function and human interaction. I strive to comprehend and enhance the user experience with their products. My passion lies in exploring challenges, as they transform into puzzles that bring me immense joy. I perceive today's world as a collection of functions and problems crafted by people, for people. My mission is to enrich these elements for the benefit of individuals, always seeking ways to bring joy into their lives through thoughtful enhancements. In the words of the renowned designer Philippe Starck, 'Joy is a function' and my objective is to breathe life into that philosophy in every design experience.
